Eliminate Silos of Data

A complete end-to-end order-to-cash platform.

Too many workflows across the order-to-cash process are performed manually, off spreadsheets and notes or alt-tabbing between various screens, just to follow-up on one account. The Cforia.autonomy platform automates the manual work and consolidates the data from the moment an invoice is sent until payment is received, allowing A/R teams to prioritize their work days and have full visibility into each of their accounts at all times.

Cforia helps us improve our clean receivable collections by driving out time spent on routine calls. This in turn allows us to spend more itme with disputes and deductions (dirty A/R) which require more direct interaction and collaboration with other groups like sales and operations, and of course the customer. The categorization of deductions by type is a huge win for us as it provides peak visibility and reporting on all "dirty" items. We used to spend a lot of time just organizing the A/R into clean and dirty from our ERP systems. Cforia's clean and dirty tracking finds and prioritizes them for us.
